Dedication

We, the Class of 1930, hereby dedicate this book to

JOHN F. THOMPSON
Principal

in grateful appreciation of his encouragement and unfailing support which have enabled us to accomplish the task
before us.

To Seniors of 1930

THREE years have passed since you entered Morton from the junior schools and elsewhere. You brought with you certain mental equipments, not from your former schools or your former teachers; these you have inherited from a long line of worthy ancestors. We did not, and could not, add to or take from these native equipments, which are your priceless inheritance, your most precious possession. If we have done anything, we have helped you to make the most of them. You came with ability to learn. We did not and could not add to that ability; we could only direct you how to use that ability. You came with ability to think and reason. We did not and could not add to these; we could only direct you how to think and reason more economically. In other words, we have tried to help you make the most of what you already have. You have been taught that an ability used becomes stronger, and when not used it becomes weaker and is sometimes lost. If you have ability in art, use it or you may lose it; in music, use it or you may lose it; in science, use it or you may lose it. If you have talent in any field of endeavor whatsoever, use it or you may lose it; for "Unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath."

Therefore, we wish you abundant success in fields of worthy activity.

J. F. THOMPSON, Sponsor.

An Appreciation

THE members of this class of 1930 who have worked on the book now before us have overcome no inconsiderable difficulties in making any book possible.

Faced with the obstacle of a depleted school treasury, they have so simplified the book and so managed the business end of it as to be independent of the usual appropriation. The opposition of those upon whom they were counting for help and advice, especially that of their own sponsors, had also to be met. They have in part overcome this opposition, in my own case turned it into whole-hearted support, by their determination, persistence, good humor, and practical plans. Some members of the Class long refused to face the situation and to be satisfied with what is possible, but they, too, are now supporting the work of the Staff.

The Class is to be congratulated upon having found people who would give willing and capable service in carrying out what all wanted done. The Staff is to be congratulated still more upon having proved their ability to rise above obstacles, not fall before them.

The strength gained through the carrying through a project in this conquering spirit will surely help them to meet and overcome others of life's difficulties.

MR. NOEL TRUSLER

Mr. Trusler is a newcomer to Morton; however, no one would know it by the number of friends he has made since he has been here. His executive ability was evident when he served as one of the sponsors for our all-school musical production.

Ralph is to be complimented for his untiring efforts as manager of Mortonite. He cheerfully arranged practices and worked overtime to make stage settings and to secure high quality texts.

RALPH PARKER

MISS ANNA BRADBURY

Was there ever a time that Miss Bradbury failed to support the student body in maintaining social activities? She was right there whenever needed during the preparations for Mortonite. The seniors of 1930 are proud to have her for a class sponsor.

Mortonite

MORTONITE, the first all school musical production given on the Morton stage, comprised twenty vaudeville stunts. A setting in futuristic design formed a gay background. Special lighting effects created an atmosphere of jollity.

Robert Shelley, director of the band, was master of ceremonies. One outstanding feature of the entertainment was "The Lonesome Little Doll Act," with Helen Frances Kinert and Warren Niles in the leading roles. Two child actresses, Joan Gans and little Dorothy Moorman, received much applause for their acts, Joan performing a Chinese dance, and little Dorothy representing the Spirit of Morton.

The proceeds from the two performances were used to finance the annual of 1930. The production was presented under the personal supervision of Miss Anna Bradbury and Mr. Noel Trusler.

Shelley and His Syncopaters

THE peppy Mortonite Band, directed by Robert Shelley, master of ceremonies for the whole program, maintained the proper pitch of excitement necessary for a lively performance by playing popular selections and presenting special numbers between the different acts. The band assisted during the evening by accompanying several dancers and novelty artists.

"KICK IN"

GODDARD HALL, EARLHAM COLLEGE

JUNE 4, 1930

"KICK IN" is the story of a young criminal who tries to reform but finds his path made difficult by the ever suspicious police, who believe that "once a crook, always a crook."

Against his wishes he becomes involved in a jewel robbery, and is cleared of guilt only after many dramatic and thrilling complications.
